Steel plate news

US domestic plate market in limbo for remainder of 2024; Q1 2025 uptick expected: sources

By Melissa VanDervort - Tuesday 03 December

Plate market participants said the domestic market remains business as usual a month after the US presidential election, with sources reporting a static market with persistent soft demand and seasonal slowness in the final month of 2024.

Fastmarkets' weekly price assessment for steel cut-to-length plate carbon grade, fob mill US was $42 per hundredweight ($840 per short ton) on Tuesday December 3, flat for the second week in a row and down by 2.33% in its last move from $43 per cwt on November 12.

Inputs were collected in a range of $41-45 per cwt, representing offers, deals and assessments of general market activity.

Market participants continued to report persistently soft demand, in addition to typical holiday season slowness.

"[Plate demand] is slow, but that's expected around the holidays," a service center distributor said. "We'll see what happens [in early 2025]."

President-elect Donald Trump sent a shockwave through the steel industry with his November 25 announcement of a planned 25% tariff on all products being imported from Canada and Mexico into the US, as well as a 10% added tariff on all Chinese imports.

Sources said the plate market will remain business as usual for the remainder of the year, with a significant uptick in demand expected when Trump is inaugurated into office on January 20.

"[The plate market] is extremely quiet [right now]," a second distributor said. "Predictions for 2025 will be hard, at least until the political issues are figured out with tariffs, etc."

Lead times were reported at three to four weeks.

Rebar news

China's domestic rebar prices maintain strength on improved sentiment

By Jessica Zong - Tuesday 03 December

China's domestic rebar market experienced a resurgence in confidence following a sustained uptick in futures market prices, which in turn, fueled a positive market sentiment that led to an increase in spot rebar prices on Tuesday December 3.

Domestic

Fastmarkets' daily price assessment for steel reinforcing bar (rebar) domestic, ex-whs Eastern China was 3,340-3,360 yuan ($460-462) per tonne on Tuesday, narrowing upward by 10 yuan per tonne from 3,330-3,350 yuan per tonne on Monday December 2.

The most-traded January rebar futures contract on the Shanghai Futures Exchange (SHFE) recorded the seventh consecutive transaction day of increase on Tuesday, though the daily increase rate was small. The contract closed at 3,352 yuan per tonne on Tuesday, up by 75 yuan per tonne from the close price of 3,277 yuan per tonne on Friday November 22.

The sustained increase in futures market prices has fostered a more optimistic outlook among certain participants in spot rebar market.

On Tuesday, some buyers raised their procurement volumes on the bullish sentiment, which in turn, drove up the spot rebar prices, a Shanghai-based trader said.

Despite this positive movement, a degree of caution persisted within the market.

Another trader in Shanghai indicated a preference to withhold restocking decisions until further price fluctuations are observed, reflecting a more conservative approach to market dynamics.

Market Chatter

"The primary driver of rebar prices is the cost of raw materials, rather than shifts in supply and demand. However, rebar prices are likely to face downward pressure due to an anticipated decline in end-user demand during December. Should demand drops to a very low level, production costs alone may not suffice to sustain rebar prices," an industry analyst said.

Billet

Fastmarkets' daily price assessment for steel billet domestic, exw Tangshan, Northern China was 3,110 yuan per tonne including value-added tax on Tuesday, unchanged from Monday.

Shanghai Futures Exchange

The most-traded January rebar futures contract on the Shanghai Futures Exchange closed at 3,352 yuan per tonne on Tuesday, up by 19 yuan per tonne from the closing price of 3,333 yuan per tonne on Monday.
