The SHFE HRC contract retreated after hitting the one-week high and finished the trading day on Wednesday slightly higher than Tuesday's close.

Improved trading in the spot market following the release of pent-up demand, and calls for production cuts across many regions, contributed to the recent rally in prices for finished steel including HRC.

But upward momentum was limited by a dampened outlook for steel demand in the longer term given the lack of major stimulus measures, sources said.

China's central bank left benchmark lending rates unchanged at a monthly fixing on Wednesday, in line with market expectations.

Export

Fastmarkets calculated its steel hot-rolled coil index export, fob main port China at $531 per tonne on Wednesday, up by $1 per tonne from $530 per tonne on Tuesday.

The recent rally in SHFE and domestic spot prices encouraged Chinese mills to raise their HRC export offers slightly higher on Wednesday, sources told Fastmarkets.

Offers from small mills remained in the range of $525-545 per tonne FOB China for 3mm SS400 HRC on Wednesday, with some mills raising offers from Tuesday's $533-535 per tonne FOB to around $536 per tonne FOB.

The bookings for HRC exports small mills received improved on Wednesday from the previous day, likely because traders booked cargoes to fulfil their previous orders, sources said.

But the trading for Chinese HRC exports has yet to see signs of substantial improvement, despite more inquiries from overseas buyers, due to general caution among these buyers, Fastmarkets learned.

SHFE HRC prices are likely to resume their decline in the absence of bullish signals, which is likely keeping overseas buyers on the sidelines, a trader in eastern China said.

Market chatter

"The easing in bearishness across the market contributed to the recent rally in SHFE steel prices, but whether the price rally can be sustained depends on the magnitude of demand recovery," an industry analyst in eastern China said.

Shanghai Futures Exchange

The most-traded May HRC futures contract closed at 3,791 yuan per tonne on Wednesday, up by 3 yuan per tonne from Tuesday's close of 3,788 yuan per tonne.
