Steel plate news

US domestic steel plate static toward end of January; sources expect prices to rise in mid-Q2

By Melissa VanDervort - Tuesday 21 January

Domestic plate prices in the US were flat on Tuesday January 21, unchanged since the second week of December, with market participants anticipating a rebound in demand and uptick in plate pricing by halfway through the second quarter of the year.

Fastmarkets' weekly assessment for steel cut-to-length plate carbon grade, fob mill US was $42 per hundredweight ($840 per short ton) on Tuesday, flat since going down by 2.33% from $43 per cwt on December 10.

Inputs were collected at $42 per cwt, representing deals and assessments of the general market.

The plate market remains stagnant in the third week of January, with sources reporting that lackluster demand and ample supply are keeping many market participants on the sidelines following the inauguration of Donald Trump on January 20.

A distributor said he expects plate prices to rise with an uptick in demand halfway through the second quarter, as the market gains momentum going into the second half of 2025.

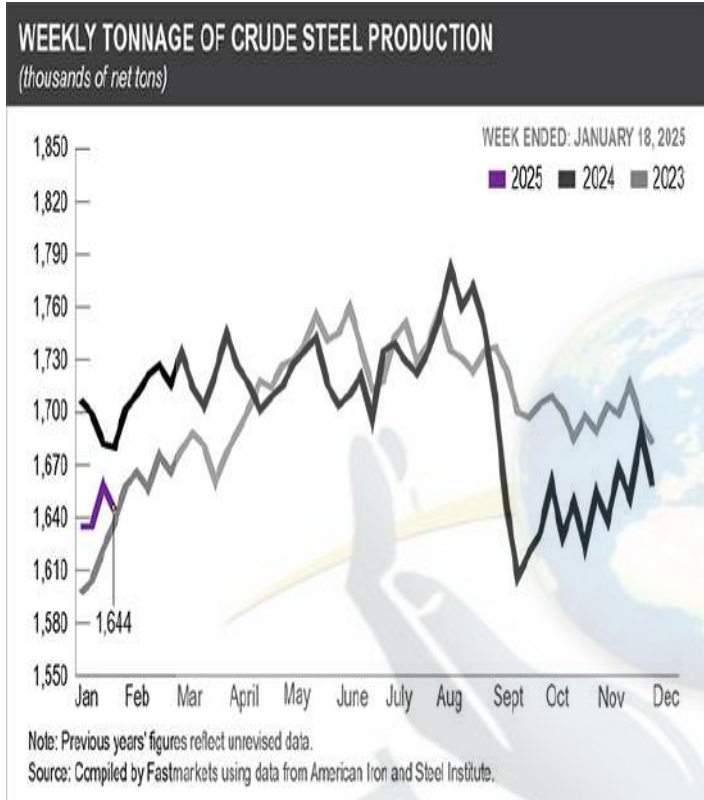

"Q1 looks to be pretty nip/tuck [in the plate market], with Q2 to gain some momentum, and H2 will be pretty decent," the distributor said. "The sooner the better, but the worm looks to be turning."

Lead times remain unchanged at two to three weeks, sources said.

Rebar news

China's rebar production down by 14% in 2024; domestic prices unchanged

By Jessica Zong - Tuesday 21 January

China's domestic rebar prices held steady on Tuesday January 21, amid continued weakness in demand, despite a sharp dip in the country's rebar production in 2024, according to latest data published by the National Bureau of Statistics (NBS).

Domestic

Fastmarkets' daily price assessment for steel reinforcing bar (rebar) domestic, ex-whs Eastern China was 3,280-3,300 yuan ($448-451) per tonne on Tuesday, unchanged from Monday.

Rebar production totaled 195.06 million tonnes in 2024, down by 13.6% from 226.38 million tonnes in 2023, according to the National Bureau of Statistics. This marked the fourth consecutive year of decline in rebar production since the peak of 267.54 million tonnes in 2020.

Despite the reduced production, rebar prices did not rise, as end-user demand fell in the week leading up to the Lunar New Year holiday on January 28 to February 4.

Many end users left the market early to begin their Lunar New Year holidays, with sellers gradually suspended their business over the past two days, which resulted in low trade activity, according to industry sources.

Market Chatter

"The lower production of rebar in 2024 was primarily driven by the bearish property market. In 2025, the property market is expected to continue facing challenges, with new construction areas and development investments likely to remain subdued. As a result, rebar production is expected to maintain its downward trend," an industry analyst said.

Billet

Fastmarkets' daily price assessment for steel billet domestic, exw Tangshan, Northern China was 3,080 yuan per tonne including value-added tax on Tuesday, unchanged from Monday.

Shanghai Futures Exchange

The most-traded May rebar futures contract on the Shanghai Futures Exchange closed at 3,354 yuan per tonne on Tuesday, unchanged from the closing price on Monday.
