lenders base their mortgage rates on, at 3.95%.

A decline in apparent demand figures for HRC in the previous week and adverse weather conditions in southern China have also added to the concerns surrounding steel demand, sources said.

On the Dalian Commodity Exchange, the most-traded contracts for coke, coking coal, and iron ore all fell on Tuesday, down by between 1.48% and 2.02% from the previous close on Monday.

Export

Fastmarkets calculated its steel hot-rolled coil index export, fob main port China at $535 per tonne on Tuesday, unchanged from Monday.

Chinese mills kept their offers for HRC exports largely unchanged on Tuesday compared with Monday due to muted trading activity and moderate changes in SHFE and domestic prices, sources said.

Offers from small mills remained unchanged at $535-550 per tonne FOB China for 3 mm SS400 HRC, while offers from larger mills were stable at $540-560 per tonne FOB for 3mm SS400-base, sources told Fastmarkets.

Bids from overseas buyers were around $525 per tonne FOB China for 3 mm

SS400 HRC, which were considered too low to be workable for transactions, sources said.

There are expectations that trading activity will continue to remain subdued due to rumors of a potential crackdown on non-VAT HRC shipments, persistent weakness in demand and the upcoming Labour Day holiday period from May 1-5 in China, sources said.

Some traders are also planning to refrain from offering HRC until after the Labour Day Holidays, sources said.

Market chatter

"Chinese steel prices do not have enough upward momentum to help them extend their rally in the short term, given the lack of more bullish signals. The prices are expected to trade rangebound in the near term," an industry analyst in Shanghai said.

Shanghai Futures Exchange

The most-traded October-delivery HRC futures contract closed at 3,797 yuan per tonne on Tuesday, down by 20 yuan per tonne from Monday's close of 3,817 yuan per tonne.
