$580 per tonne FOB China for SS400 grade, 1.0-mm thick HRC.

A mill in eastern China – whose offers are usually competitive among large mills – set its HRC offer at $570 per tonne FOB China, which was “really cheap,” according to traders.

Volatile exchange rates also kept traders and mills from giving HRC export offers on Tuesday, traders said.

The central parity rate of the RMB, an indicator for the spot interbank foreign exchange market and the exchange rate quoted by banks, was 7.1406 against $1 on Tuesday, compared with 7.1453 a week earlier, according to China's State Administration of Foreign Exchange.

Market chatter

“Finished steel prices are more likely to rise than fall in the short term, given the relatively low inventories and the introduction of stimulus measures. But spot demand is expected to remain sluggish amid the adverse weather, which will constrain upward potential in steel prices,” an industry analyst in eastern China said.

Shanghai Futures Exchange

The most-traded October HRC futures contract closed at 4,017 yuan per tonne on Tuesday, up by 99 yuan per tonne from Monday's close.

Mexican steel scrap prices continue to drop amid reduced material flow

By Felipe Peroni - Tuesday 25 July

Ferrous scrap prices in Mexico continued to fall in the week ended July 21, with some scrap sellers reducing their shipments amid a weak finished steel market.

Several scrap consumers announced price cuts throughout the week amid reduced necessity of raw materials due to weak finished steel demand. Price reductions were reported in all regions and from almost every major scrap consumer.

"It has been a bloodbath in prices," a scrap seller said.

Fastmarkets' assessment of steel scrap No1 busheling, consumer buying price, delivered mill Bajío reached 5,925 pesos ($350) per tonne on Tuesday July 25, down by 100 pesos from 6,025 pesos per tonne a week earlier.

A wide range of prices was reported for this grade, with the price being defined according to the size of the seller and volumes involved. Purchases of large batches were stable around 6,300 pesos per tonne, while a myriad of small providers sold the same material below 5,000 pesos per tonne.

Fastmarkets' weekly assessment for steel scrap cut structural/plate 3ft max, consumer buying price, delivered mill Bajío fell by 600 pesos to 5,300 pesos per tonne from 5,900 pesos per tonne in the same comparison.

Meanwhile, Fastmarkets' weekly assessment of steel scrap No1 busheling, consumer buying price, delivered mill Monterrey was 5,500 pesos per tonne on Tuesday, down by 400 pesos from 5,900 pesos per tonne in the previous week.

Deals for this grade were reported close to 5,000 pesos per tonne from large steel producers.

Fastmarkets' weekly assessment of the steel scrap No1 heavy melt, consumer buying price, delivered mill Monterrey reached 4,350 pesos per tonne on July 25, down by 650 pesos from 5,000 pesos per tonne in the previous week.

Some scrap market participants believe the price decrease announcements already went too far, and are waiting for prices to stabilize.

"We see a movement from steel producers to try to keep inventories low, and therefore production cuts are occurring," a source said. "We believe many scrap generators are already reducing their shipments [due to low prices]."
