Heard in the market

Sources were divided as to how close the market is to a bottom. Some said large-volume deals could be struck as low as $33 per cwt, though the more usual spot buy was low tonnage with a consequently higher price — upward of $40 per cwt.

The vast majority of buying being done on contract is leading some to believe that mills will hold the line on spot pricing as long as possible. Demand remains soft, with lead times hovering around three to four weeks.

Quote of the day

“Demand is a little soft and distribution pricing is transacting as if there is a looming price drop at the mill level,” one buy-side source said. “I find it hard to believe the mills will drop their prices, as there is little if any import pressure.

Fastmarkets’ daily steel hot-rolled coil index, fob mill US Midwest was calculated at $38.66 per cwt ($773.20 per ton) on Wednesday, up by 0.26% from $38.56 per cwt a week earlier.

“I’m staying out of the spot market for another week or two,” a distributor said, and a producer echoed this sentiment.

“Still a somewhat quiet spot market out there,” the producer said.

A second distributor underlined the demand slowdown in general: “Our business is down 15% from our forecast, and everybody is seeing slowdowns.”

“It will be a quiet back end of the year; most major manufacturers are seeing order book slowdowns --- I think this happens during an election year,” the second distributor said.

A third distributor noted that the June ferrous scrap market is expected to be soft as well, which can pull down hot band prices further.

“It looks like we’re in a state of equilibrium, and hopefully scrap won’t drop too much,” the third distributor said.

Fastmarkets’ weekly green steel domestic, differential to US HRC, fob mill remained at $0 per ton on May 29, due to low liquidity in the sector.

Its domestic green steel base price, hot-rolled coil fob US mill, weekly inferred stood at $773.50 per ton ($38.675 per cwt), being the average of the most-recent calculation of the US Midwest and South HRC prices plus the US green steel differential.

US South HRC index flat in slow spot market

By Rijuta Dey Bera - Thursday 30 May

Hot-rolled coil prices in the US South remained rangebound around $770 per short ton while buyers continued to remain on the sidelines of the spot market.

Fastmarkets’ steel hot-rolled coil index, fob mill US South was calculated at $38.69 per hundredweight ($773.80 per short ton) on Wednesday May 29, up by 0.23% from $38.60 per cwt the week before.
