US domestic plate prices steady in mostly muted market

By Melissa VanDervort - Tuesday 02 December

Plate prices in the US rose were stable on Tuesday December 2 after rising the week prior due to mill price hikes, with sources describing a mostly quiet market with continued subdued demand and minimal spot activity.

Fastmarkets’ weekly assessment for steel cut-to-length plate carbon grade, fob mill US was $51 per hundredweight ($1,020 per short ton) on Tuesday, steady from November 25, but up by 2% from $50 per cwt on November 18.

Inputs were collected in a range from $49-53 per cwt, representing offers and general assessments of the spot market.

Sources were split on the state of demand in the domestic plate market, with some reporting steady demand while other market participants said demand remains muted amid ongoing light spot activity.

“Demand is good,” a plate buyer said. “Plate mills continue to push for higher prices.”

A distributor disagreed, saying, “Demand is slow, and we expect that to continue through the first quarter [of] 2026.”

A second distributor shared a similar view, saying, “Projects and contract [business] are okay, but day-to-day [business] is subpar.”

“[The] balance of 2025 will still be a battle for demand,” the second distributor said. “Some folks [are] thinking [that] by February or March [of] 2026 some demand will kick in, and others think it will take longer... Time will tell.”

Sources expect demand to improve in the first quarter of 2026 and anticipate that plate mills will announce another price increase in the near term, following price hikes in late November.

Nucor announced a plate price increase of $30 per ton ($1.50 per cwt) in a letter to customers on November 24.

In addition, the steelmaker opened their order books for January 2026 production.

“I would not be surprised for another [price] increase [in] late December or early January, but demand needs to kick in [for the increase] to be successful,” the second distributor said.

“I do expect another increase for January,” a third distributor said. “Demand is good and [plate] imports aren’t a factor unless the plate mills get too greedy.”

Lead times were reported at four to six weeks.

Mattress maker Somnigroup makes $1.63 bln bid for Leggett & Platt

By Robert England - Tuesday 02 December

Mattress maker Somnigroup International of Lexington, Kentucky, announced on Monday December 1 that it had submitted a $1.63-billion proposal to acquire Leggett & Platt, a diversified manufacturer of bedsprings and other bedding components.

The Carthage, Missouri-based Leggett & Platt has been a long-time supplier for Somnigroup — which was formed from Tempur-Sealy's acquisition of Mattress Firm in February — and also makes furniture mechanisms, office chair parts, automotive seat suspension systems and flooring underlayment.

The acquisition would represent a vertical integration for the two companies, and it has implications for the wire rod and wire industry, according to a wire producer, given that Leggett & Platt owns Sterling Steel Company in Sterling, Illinois — a facility that makes billets and wire rod used to produce wire for other units of Leggett & Platt.

"It will be interesting to see what their approach will be to the Sterling Steel rod mill," the wire producer said. "I'm pretty certain that it will be seen as a good thing [for Somnigroup] to have their own rod and wire supply."

Under the terms of the all-stock swap transaction, Leggett & Platt shareholders would receive $12 in shares of Somnigroup common stock for each share of Leggett & Platt.

The deal represents a 30.3% premium over the average share value of Leggett & Platt shares over the prior 30 trading days, according to Somnigroup.

"It will be interesting to see if they have the appetite and the cash to invest in Sterling to grow their billet and rod business further, assuming the state of Illinois would allow it," the wire producer said. "The US rod and wire industry certainly could use some more investment and modernization."

Fastmarkets' monthly price assessment for steel wire rod \(low carbon\) industrial quality, fob mill US was $49-55 per hundredweight ($980-1,100 per short ton) on November 18, unchanged since June 17.
