works for January lead times.

As a result, Fastmarkets' daily steel hot-rolled coil index domestic, exw Northern Europe was €614.06 per tonne on November 25, down by €0.94 per tonne from €615 per tonne on Monday November 24.

The index was up by €0.31 per tonne week on week and by €13.18 per tonne month on month.

European mills continued to prioritize long-term contract negotiations with automotive original equipment manufacturers (OEMs), with talks said to be at an advanced stage but still not finalized.

As a result, mills were not very active in the spot market, allowing prices to hold firm despite soft demand.

In Italy, meanwhile, the market situation was similar. Market sources described "barely any trading," with local distributors reporting no urgent need to purchase additional material.

Italian mills were largely sold out of December-delivery HRC, with recent bookings concluded at €580-590 per tonne ex-works.

For January delivery, offer prices increased to around €600-620 per tonne ex-works depending on the producer, although most buyers indicated that workable levels had not exceeded €590-600 per tonne ex-works.

Fastmarkets' daily steel hot-rolled coil index domestic, exw Italy was calculated at €602.50 per tonne on Tuesday, down by €1.25 per tonne from €603.75 per tonne on Monday.

The index was however up by €3.75 per tonne week on week and by €12.50 per tonne month on month.

Italian market participants noted that a wide gap between domestic offers and the cost of imports was limiting mills' ability to push prices higher. There was reportedly plentiful availability of imported HRC at €570-600 per tonne DDP Italy, including estimated CBAM charges, for delivery in the first quarter of 2026.

Some traders were increasingly offering DDP deals and taking on CBAM-related risks on the seller's side, but buyers remained wary of potential cost escalations.

With inconsistent and still-unfinalized CBAM data, buyers preferred to look toward "safer" origins such as Turkey and South Korea, which offered HRC at around €580-600 per tonne DDP including CBAM costs. Asia-origin coil for April delivery was reported at €595 per tonne DDP into Maastricht, in the Netherlands. Lower nominal CFR prices from India and Indonesia, at €475-490 per tonne, were largely overshadowed by uncertainty around final CBAM calculations.

Market sources across Europe emphasized that CBAM's rollout remained clouded by inconsistent information, leaving buyers effectively making import decisions "blindfolded." Many expect that the final implementation phase will lead to broader reliance on actual emissions reporting rather than default values, although the timeline for such adjustments remains unclear.

Rebar news

China's domestic rebar prices rise on tighter supply

By Jessica Zong - Tuesday 25 November

China's domestic rebar prices rose further on Tuesday November 25 due to low spot market inventories and a supportive futures market performance, sources told Fastmarkets.

Rebar inventories in 21 major cities totaled 3.43 million tonnes on Thursday November 20, down by 130,000 tonnes from 3.56 million tonnes on November 10, according to data published by China Iron & Steel Association (CISA) on Sunday November 23.

Market participants noted that inventories for certain grades of rebar in east China are now "very" low.

According to sources, the decrease in spot rebar stocks was a fundamental support for rebar prices, while the rise in the futures market provided additional upward pressure on the spot market.

Fastmarkets' daily price assessment for steel reinforcing bar (rebar) domestic, ex-whs Eastern China was 3,060-3,080 yuan per tonne on Monday, up by 20 yuan per tonne from 3,040-3,060 yuan per tonne on Friday.

Sellers capitalized on the price strength to secure margins, despite encountering resistance to the higher prices from a portion of the market.

Some sellers bought cargoes to replenish inventories, but some others suspended procurement plans on their negative price outlooks in winter, a trader based in Shanghai said.

Market Chatter

"I increased my offer prices for rebar exports because values for the product in China's domestic market have risen for two consecutive days, but overseas buyers have reject any price rise. Export transactions are barely being concluded," an exporter based in eastern China said.

Fastmarkets' calculation of steel reinforcing bar (rebar) index export, fob China main port was $472.54 per tonne on Tuesday, up by $0.25 per tonne from $472.29 per tonne a week earlier on November 18.

Billet

Fastmarkets' daily price assessment for steel billet domestic, exw Tangshan, Northern China was 2,980 yuan per tonne including value-added tax on Tuesday, unchanged from.

Shanghai Futures Exchange

The most-traded January rebar futures contract on the Shanghai Futures Exchange closed at 3,106 yuan per tonne on Tuesday, up by 17 yuan per tonne from 3,089 yuan per tonne on Monday.
